

Model and TV presenter Emma Willis, 34, reveals her secrets

What beauty products do you swear by?

I love Crème de la Mer Lip Balm and I have an amazing spray tan man that comes to my house. His name is James Hartnett and he uses Fake Bake.

What are your essential cosmetics?

For the summer I love OPI Nail Polish in Big Red Apple. It's a fire engine red colour. To The Beach Crème Bronzer from MAC is more dewy than a powder and beautycycle, a range from Amway, do an amazing oil-free foundation. It's not chalky or dry and looks like silk on your skin.

Do you diet?

No, but I'm sensible. I didn't buy into the "eating for two" thing when I was pregnant with my daughter, Isabelle, last year, but I did develop a craving for sweets and chocolate, which I can't shake off.

How do you stay in shape?

I did pregnancy yoga once a week to keep my joints from fusing together, but I'm not doing anything at the moment.

If you could change one part of your body, what would it be?

The bottom half. I've never liked my legs. That's why I don't wear skirts or dresses. They are very muscular, but they work, so I'm not complaining.

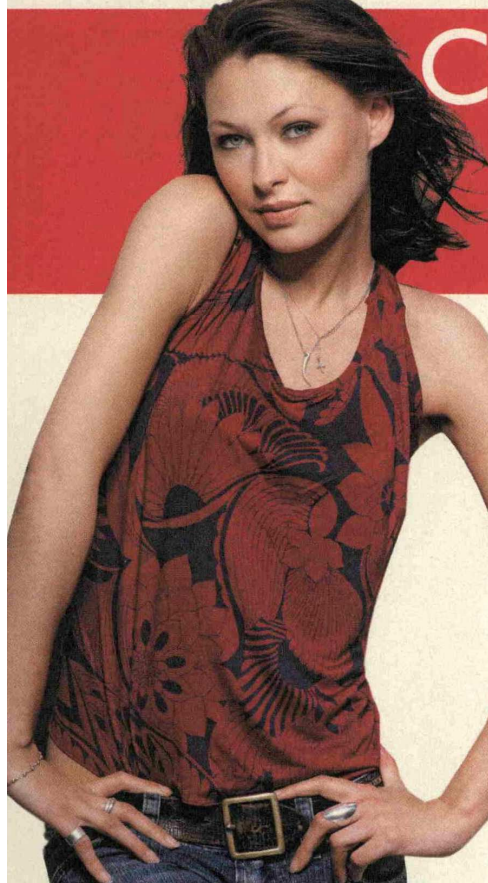

How do you pamper yourself?

I get in the shower, lock the door, then I scrub my skin and paint my toenails.

Have you got an all-time favourite outfit?

Two years on, I still really love my ivory wedding dress. It had a corseted top with sheer straps and a big, full skirt.

What's the most money you've spent on an item of clothing?

CELEBRITY BEAUTY SECRETS

My wedding dress! I didn't know what to expect to pay, but it wasn't anything like some people who spend on their dress what you should spend on a whole wedding.

Which other women do you think are beautiful?

Cheryl Cole is stunning and cute.

Describe your style.

Comfortably casual. If I put a dress on, I still feel like I'm going to a wedding, but I'm slowly making the transition to female!
